New Dealers
Look to FDR
For Guidance

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Administration leaders looked forward today to a message from President Roosevelt to guide Congress toward a firm foreign and national defense policy, a curb on monopoly, and encouragement of business through a revision of taxes.

The message, to be delivered in person when the regular session opens Monday, was expected to be a comprehensive disclosure of the administration program as it shapes up after a fruitless special session and in the face of the current business recession.

Outstanding Problems
Outstanding problems to be dealt with were forecast generally as:

1. Foreign Policy: Mr. Roosevelt was believed likely to deal at length with the nation's foreign relations, emphasizing his belief that the United States must accept certain responsibilities, and possibly outlining a national defense program that would, incidentally, aid in combatting the recession.

2. Monopoly: General Congressional opinion was that Mr. Roosevelt will seek rigorous action to check monopolistic tendencies but without definite decision on the type of legislation, if any, to be enacted. Increased congressional interest in the federal corporation licensing bill introduced by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., and Sen. William E. Borah, R., Idaho, including an endorsement by Sen. George W. Norris, I., Neb., aroused speculation whether the administration would back it.

3. Business Aid: General tax revision, including modification of the undistributed profits and capital gains tax, was considered certain to be in the President's program, which was expected to be pitched on a note generally pleasant to business except for the "top per cent" which Mr. Roosevelt will

Labor Board In New Ford Attack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(UP)—The National Labor Relations Board announced in a formal statement today that it would petition the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for enforcement of a ruling ordering the Ford Motor company to cease alleged violations of the Wagner labor act if the company does not notify the N.L.R.B. of compliance by January 2.

"This is the procedure which is provided by the National Labor Relations Act," the board said. "If the court issues such a decree (enforcing the board's decision) the company will then, if it fails to comply, be guilty of contempt of court."

30,000 HIT BY G. M. C. LAYOFF

DETROIT, Dec. 28.—(UP)—General Motors Corporation announced today a reduction in its working force by approximately 30,000 men, effective Jan. 1. The announcement was made by William S. Knudsen, president.

The corporation regrets to announce that recession in business makes a readjustment of its work force necessary," Knudsen said.

The reduction is effective throughout the United States. Approximately 20,000 of the 30,000 to be laid off, however, will be in Michigan, Knudsen said.

"The corporation has kept its men employed up to very recently by reducing hours for each man in order to help the general economic situation," Knudsen continued. "Inventories, both in the field and at the plant, accumulated through this policy have reached a point where adjustment must take place. Therefore, on or about Jan. 1 the working force will be reduced in order that people who will continue to work will have a reasonable income for their needs."

"This may affect a considerable number of men in all locations, but there still remain on General Motors payrolls in the United States more than 205,000 men and the monthly payroll will exceed $24,000,000."

"The corporation regrets circumstances which make this necessary but sincerely hopes that the condition is temporary and spring will see return or normal employment," Knudsen described the layoff as "larger than seasonal."

FOREIGN SALES OF U. S. COTTON GAINS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(UP)—American cotton is now going to the orient in increasing quantities after months of low sales, the department of agriculture reported today.

China obtained 12,500 bales of American cotton in the first three weeks of December, after getting only 200 bales through the Japanese blockade in the four months, Aug. 1 to Dec. 1, department reports showed. Japan, after taking only 84,000 bales in the same four months, bought 29,000 bales in the first three weeks of December.

Total exports of American cotton since Aug. 1 are 10 per cent greater than last year, despite an 80 per cent reduction in Chinese and Japanese purchases, the department reported. Sale of American cotton abroad totals 3,125,000 bales this year, compared with 2,822,000 in the same period of last year.

HUGE OIL TANKER AGROUND ON REEF

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—(UP)—The General Petroleum Co. tanker Toorak, a 5205-ton vessel, went aground off Cebu island in the Philippines today, the marine exchange of the chamber of commerce reported.

The Toorak radioed distress messages, asking for immediate assistance. She reported herself "hard aground." The Toorak was enroute from Manila to California. Cebu is a large island of the Philippine group, approximately 100 miles south of Manila.

The Toorak was commanded by Capt. Heath. She is one of the largest vessels of the General Petroleum fleet. It was not learned immediately whether the crew was in danger or whether the ship was being broken up. A salvage tug was dispatched from Manila to attempt to refloat the Toorak, the marine exchange said.

BOMBERS JOIN PACIFIC PATROL

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 28.—(UP)—The navy's huge patrol bombers are conducting a "dawn patrol" off the Southern California coast in connection with the current mysterious fleet movement, it was guardedly admitted in official circles here today.

In making the admission, for the first time since the current maneuvers started, that the big planes are involved, naval officials hastened to add that such "dawn patrols are not unusual"—heretofore the navy steadfastly denied any planes were involved in the fleet exercises.

"Sub" Rumor Denied
It was stressed the patrols are part of "regular routine training" and the flights have not been inspired by rumors of alien submarine activity off the coast. Naval officers here openly scoffed at the rumor of foreign submarines operating in this vicinity.

The admission of the use on patrol of the patrol bombers—each capable of cruising about 4,000 miles non stop at a speed in excess of 120 miles per hour—came after residents were awakened before daylight by the thunder of the twin-motored craft as they rose from the bay in a dead calm.

Asked directly whether the patrol plane activity had any connection with the current "security measures" undertaken by destroyer squadrons, an officer on the staff of Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of aircraft, scouting force, said:

FIREMAN KILLED AS TRAIN HITS SLIDE

MONROE, Wash., Dec. 28.—(UP)—A large dirt slide derailed a Great Northern Railway mail train three miles east of here early today, killing Fireman Elwood L. Tucker when the locomotive, loaded with a coach tumbled into the Skykomish river.

Engineer M. K. McLain was injured when he was thrown from the locomotive's cab. The wreck was the second train accident caused by slides, loosened by heavy rains, in the last three days. Sunday night a Spokane, Portland and Seattle freight train struck a slide near Washougal, Wash., and a fireman and a brakeman were killed.

Arizona Plans To Make T. B. Survey

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 28.—(UP)—Dr. Coit L. Hughes, state superintendent of public health, said today he will direct a state-wide census of indigent transient tuberculosis patients in Arizona for the U. S. public health service.

A Blue and Bearded 'Bluebeard'

Time has made the title of "Bluebeard II" more appropriate for Eugene George Weidmann, confessed slayer of six persons, including Jean De Koven of Brooklyn, N. Y. Weidmann, hands shackled behind him, is pictured unshaven and dejected.

GEORGE PARKER SELECTED TO HEAD CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

At a special organization meeting of the Santa Ana Civil Service Board which will direct regulation of civil service for the police and fire departments in the future, George Parker was elected chairman of the three-man group, and Phil Brown, temporary secretary.

Parker, Brown and Clyde Ashen, named to the board by Mayor Fred C. Rowland, were confirmed to the positions, to serve without pay, by the council as a whole at the group's last meeting.

The organization meeting was held at the city hall with Mayor Rowland present. Parker was named to serve six years, Brown four, and Ashen two, their terms expiring respectively, December 31, 1943; December 31, 1941, and December 31, 1939.

Brown was named temporary secretary only since civil service regulation requires that an expert chief examiner of those who take civil service examinations in seeking jobs with the city, must serve in the secretarial capacity, when chosen.

Will Select Examiner
Such examiner, who would serve with pay, can be chosen from any city now operating under civil service regulation and having such examiner. Long Beach, Los Angeles and other Southern California cities have such examiners, Mayor Rowland pointed out.

STAR LOSES ROUND IN $2,000,000 SUIT

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Judith Allen, movie beauty, was the loser today in a preliminary round of her $2,000,000 suit against Delphine Dodge Godde, motor heiress, over the love of Jack Doyle, the Irish crooner-boxer.

Miss Allen claims Doyle was rushing back to Hollywood from England for a reconciliation with her when he met the blonde heiress. The actress had already obtained first divorce papers against Doyle at the time.

Attorneys for Mrs. Godde filed a demurrer, claiming that Miss Allen's divorce erased whatever claims she had to the boxer. Superior Judge Robert W. Kenny agreed, but said Miss Allen "may possibly have cause of action if there was a real reconciliation" afterwards. He said the complaint was "too vague" in this respect, however, and sustained the demurrer.

DREAMS COME TRUE FOR HOLLYWOOD BOY

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.—(UP)—A male version of the Cinderella story came true in Hollywood today in the case of Marvin Stephens, a boy.

His acting talents were recognized by the movies, and he went to work for 20th Century Fox Studios today under a contract starting him at $75 a week and rising to $750 a week at the end of seven years if options are taken.

Because Marvin is not yet of age, his contract was approved in superior court, along with a new contract for Mickey Rooney, child film star.

SUPERVISORS TAKE ACTION IN SQUABBLE

Move to oust Superior Judge Homer G. Ames from his position as judge of the county's juvenile court was made late today by a unanimous "aye" and "nay" vote of the board of supervisors in recommending that the presiding judge of superior court, Judge James L. Allen take the necessary action.

The motion, adopted upon recommendation of John Mitchell, supervisor in charge of the juvenile home program, declared:

"I move that, in view of the very unsatisfactory administration of the juvenile home under the present authority, that the presiding judge be urged to make a change in the judge of the juvenile court."

Judge Ames, himself, was presiding judge but a short time ago, but, in accordance with the usual rotating program, Judge Allen was named presiding judge about a week ago.

The action was taken without comment, indicated executive session action previously. As is usual with an "aye" and "nay" vote, the chairman, Willard Smith, did not vote.

The action dates back to the time the supervisors refused to appropriate $3,000 for the salary of Dr. Edward L. Russell, whom Judge Ames and the County Probation committee wished to name as coordinator in the probation department.

ORANGE MAN IS TRAFFIC VICTIM

Struck down at 10:40 p. m. yesterday in Orange as he was riding his bicycle to work in the fog, N. L. "Daddy" Raymond, 74, night watchman for the Anaconda Wire and Cable company, was injured fatally, dying at 9:30 a. m. today in St. Joseph hospital, from internal injuries.

Mr. Raymond's bicycle and an automobile coupe, driven by Arthur Craft, 29, star running guard of the Santa Ana junior college football team in 1935, of 513 West LaVeta, Orange, collided. The fatality was the 32nd recorded on Orange county highways in 1937.

According to estimates of Orange police who investigated, Craft was traveling at approximately 18 miles per hour at the time of the accident. The victim was hurled 18 feet by the impact. Craft said he failed to see Mr. Raymond and his bicycle in time to avoid a collision.

The accident occurred in front of the Zipper cafe in the 209-block of West Chapman avenue. Mr. Raymond suffered from internal injuries, which caused his death.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 28.—(UP)—An increase of $14,000,000 in California's general fund income for the first five months of the current fiscal year, compared with the corresponding period last year, was reported today by State Controller Harry B. Riley.

The 3 per cent retail sales tax continued as the state's leading revenue producer, showing a gain of $5,600,000 for the five months comparative period. Other increases included: personal income tax $2,250,000; bank and corporation franchise tax, $2,000,000, and gasoline tax (applied to road purposes) $2,400,000.

Foul Play Feared In Disappearance

Foul play was suspected in connection with the disappearance recently of James Elmer Davis, 25, according to his step-father, Charles Taylor, 219 South Artesia, Santa Ana, who asked sheriff's officers to investigate.

Davis last was seen near Dick's cafe, Taubert, officers were informed.

His remarks, accompanied by a formal report, will cover all details of the economic value of matters ranging from use of windbreaks to new production methods for various products throughout Orange county.

To Analyze Costs
Included among other of his subjects will be new developments in walnut fertilizer responses; the effect of irrigation flooding during periods of damaging freeze; the avocado variety survey in Orange county; and summaries of the production cost analysis on Valencia lemons, walnuts and avocados which have been conducted in Orange county for 10 years.

Staff members of the University of California will be contacted by Wahlberg, looking to the second Orange County Agricultural Economic Conference sometime in March.

Officers To Be Present
The first session held last spring was attended by 40 representatives of farm groups in Orange county, including the water companies, credit organizations, Farm Bureau, Grange, packing house and other active farm organizations.

The Berkeley session also will be attended by representatives of the College of Agriculture, the Experiment Station, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

S. A. TAXPAYERS TO GET "GIFT"

collected from all property in the city to carry the assessment bonds on the delinquent lots, it was explained to the supervisors by City Attorney L. W. Blodgett.

City Officials Present
Councilman Joseph P. Smith, City Auditor Lloyd Banks, and C. W. Hyde, agent in the transaction, appeared with Blodgett before the supervisors to present the plan and ask cancellation of general county taxes.

Supervisor Steele Finley of Santa Ana, at first objected that several of the lots in the North Broadway Park area were so badly depreciated by street set-back regulations on two sides that no space remained for a building site. Blodgett and Hyde, however, succeeded in arguing Finley out of his position, and he made the motion to cancel the taxes.

Seen As Only Hope
Hyde said that he believed at least a third of the delinquency could be realized from these lots, or about $700 instead of the $2100 in red ink now against them; that, even if Finley was right, the city and county would be no worse off than now, as the city's plan represented the only hope for the county to ever collect future taxes from the property.

He also pointed out that, anyway, the two or three lots were only an insignificant part of the program, with 159 lots involved. Only 16 of the lots are north of First street.

Prior to the action, the directors of the bureau expressed appreciation of the service that Flaherty has given to the organization since 1923. Flaherty's resignation becomes effective Jan. 1.

GUARD PANAY NEWS PICTURE

the United States and Japan.

Camerman Greeted
Norman Alley, Universal Newsreel cameraman who stood on the deck of the bombarded Panay and took pictures of the Japanese serial attack, debarked from the clipper surrounded by a ring of armed guards.

Alley told the United Press he had been approached by a Japanese naval commander at Shanghai apparently for the purpose of negotiating for the Panay film.

"The Japanese officer came aboard the Augusta at Shanghai and asked to see me. The ship's officers directed him to me, and the Japanese officer asked if he could make an appointment with me that night in Shanghai," Alley said.

"I declined to meet him. He said nothing directly about the film, but his intentions were unmistakable. I didn't let the film out of my sight from the time I left China," Alley said.

After Alley entered the Pan American Airways depot to greet his wife and three children, the cans of film were taken off the ship. The films were carried by guards and immediately transferred to an armored car.

At the same time a can containing 1500 feet of newsreel film taken by Eric Mayell, Fox-Movie-tone and News-of-the-Day cameraman, who also was aboard the Panay, were transferred to the armored car.

Sent to Washington
Conveyed by traffic patrolmen, the armored car containing the film started to the Oakland airport, six miles distant, where the film was to be placed aboard a United Air Lines Mailliner for a hop to Washington where the films will be given a private preview, possibly before President Roosevelt.

Mayell was not aboard the clipper. A special print of the newsreel will be flown to Los Angeles today for another showing. Both films will be released to theaters throughout the nation within a few days.

LOYALISTS IN NEW VICTORIES

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Spanish Loyalists asserted today that the Nationalist defenders of Teruel were weakening, and that the collapse of resistance, narrowed now to two small groups of buildings, might be expected at any time.

Both the seminary and the Bank of Spain building, the principal centers of resistance, were burning slowly and the Loyalists asserted that fire from the buildings was decreasing noticeably in intensity.

Relief "Bogs Down"
Loyalists insisted that two Nationalist relief columns on their way to Teruel were making absolutely no progress and that the Nationalists were not even replying to appeals for help radioed by the defenders.

Nationalists, on the contrary, reported steady progress by the relief columns—which were said several days ago to be "within sight" of Teruel—and said they were inflicting severe losses on the Loyalists outside the city.

NAVY PATROL BOAT SEEN OFF NEWPORT

Confirming wire dispatches that the U. S. navy is engaged in a widespread patrol of the Southern California coast was information today of the presence of a destroyer two or three miles off Newport Beach.

The destroyer is patrolling the area between Newport Beach and Catalina island. The fishing fleet of Newport Beach is anchored at present off Newport in the general area being patrolled by the destroyer. No reports of any part of the fishing fleet being stopped have been received.

3 INJURED IN TRAFFIC CRASH

Three persons were injured, one seriously, when an automobile driven by Cecil Slate, 17, and one driven by Mrs. Jean E. Ellison, 34, of 321 So. Flower street, collided at 1:45 p. m. today at West First street, and Huntington Beach boulevard, about six miles west of Santa Ana. The injured were brought to local hospitals.

In addition to Cecil Slate, the injured are: Elmer Slate, the latter's brother, seriously hurt; Mrs. O. J. Slate, 42, mother of the boys, and a boy who resides near the States, who live at 17th and Springdale, two miles west of Westminster, and whose name was not learned. Officers said Mrs. Ellison escaped with shock and bruises.

The car occupied by the States was headed south on Huntington boulevard, while the auto driven by Mrs. Ellison was going west on First street.

BOMBERS JOIN IN PACIFIC PATROL

"We are training for national security the entire year."

Number Unknown
It was not known how many planes were being used in the "dawn patrol" but the navy has more than 40 of the great craft, virtual flying battleships, based here permanently.

At the same time the navy settled into the second week of what the high command designated as a "routine security watch" as nine destroyers of squadron 2, with the 1850-ton U. S. S. Porter as flagship, steamed out of the harbor here.

The squadron, composed of the U. S. S. Drayton, Flusser, Lamson, Mahan, Cushing, Perkins, Preston and Smith, will relieve squadron 11 which inaugurated the "chance patrol" between Point Arguello and the Coronado islands.

The destroyers U. S. S. Monaghan and Dale, of the 1500-ton type, also moved out of the harbor today to relieve the U. S. S. Phelps and Conyngham off-shore here. The San Diego patrol is changed every 24 hours.

Squadron 11, composed of world war-type destroyers, the oldest in the navy, is to return here late today or tomorrow, it was said.

SUBMARINE FLEET IS RUMORED

SAN PEDRO, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Rumors of alien submarine activity off the California coast, and the dispatch of a second squadron of nine naval destroyers here from San Diego for patrol duty enlivened the navy's mysterious maneuvers in the Pacific today.

The Los Angeles Daily News said today that navy authorities were discussing reports that "an alien flotilla of submarines, probably Japanese," had been seen off the coast.

"Authoritative Source"
The newspaper said the information came from "a man well versed in naval secrets both in California and Washington," and that the informant said it was feasible for Japanese submarines to operate from some secluded place along the lower California coast.

Commander C. J. Wheeler, secretary to Admiral Arthur J. Heppner, commander-in-chief of the fleet, denied the rumor.

The Los Angeles newspaper informant said the navy had sent seaplanes to scout for the submarines. He did not say what the flyers intended to do had they found them.

Naval authorities continued to describe the movement of destroyers as part of a routine security program.

Except for espionage, subversive activities and sabotage, it was believed that a foreigner violating the regulations at most would be held for a day or two and then delivered to his own consulate for trial upon the latter's demand.

JAPANESE REPLY TO BRITISH PROTEST

TOKYO, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota tonight handed to Sir Robert Craigie, British ambassador, a reply to British protests against a Japanese artillery attack on the Japanese Gunboat Ladybird.

It was reported that the Japanese note was similar to that containing the Japanese airplane attack on the United States Gunboat Panay. But the foreign office announced that its text would not be made public tonight and there was some speculation whether the note contained matter not hitherto revealed.

Hirota was received in audience by Emperor Hirohito today and was understood to have reported on the Ladybird and Panay incidents. Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, navy minister, sent an aide, Capt. Yasuichiro Kondo, to visit Capt. H. B. Rawlings, British naval attaché, tonight to explain the circumstances of the bombing of the Ladybird and other British warships in the Yangtze river.

Army authorities, after the delivery of the Ladybird note, issued a statement through the foreign office giving their version of the attack.

CHINESE BOMB NIPPON LAUNCH

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Daring Chinese grenadiers bombed a Japanese army launch in Soochow Creek today for the second time in 24 hours.

Three men waited on the Chekiang Road bridge across the creek and bombed the launch as it passed. Then they quickly lost themselves in the crowds along the creek side. Japanese soldiers in the launch fired vainly at them. It was reported that one Japanese soldier had been wounded.

The attacks on Japanese army launches, it was noted, started almost at the hour of the promulgation by Japanese authorities of new drastic regulations prescribing the death penalty for anyone, including Americans and other foreigners, who molested the Japanese army or navy in "occupied territory."

Bridges Closed
So alarmed were Shanghai munitipal police at the new development that tonight they closed all but four bridges over Soochow creek, and the traffic on the four which remained open was halted every time a Japanese boat passed.

Japanese army authorities admitted today that, though they had penetrated China beyond Nanking, actually the country between here and the capital was honeycombed with strong bands of guerrilla fighters. An army spokesman said that the bands numbered usually between 100 and 200 men and that they were causing considerable annoyance. They are even operating in the suburbs of Shanghai itself.

Machine gun firing was heard plainly from the Hungjiao suburb yesterday.

NEW DEALERS LOOK TO FOR

the past has blamed for much of the nation's economic troubles.

Most authoritative indications were that the President would adopt a middle course on demands raised at the special session for quick and far-reaching aid to business.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to call for revival in some form of the wages and hours bill buried in the house.

Another possible theme for the message was the New Deal effort to revive private enterprise and expansion in the utility field, whose leaders have conferred recently with the President without, apparently, gaining any drastic concessions in regard to government competition. It was understood, however, that the regional planning bill for seven new TVAs would be modified.

SUPERVISORS GET WARNING ON DITCH

If water is permitted to drain over his property because of allegedly improperly constructed drainage ditches, R. W. McCrea will hold the county responsible. He so informed them in a letter read to the board of supervisors this morning.

McCrea said that he owns two lots at Aliso Beach and plans to build a home upon them at some future date. At present the county is repairing streets in that area and McCrea charged that the present construction of a drainage ditch shunts storm waters over his property, making it dangerous for development. He demanded that the drainage be handled through underground pipes and advised that, unless the county has an easement across his property the ditch had better be filled in. The matter was referred to Highway Superintendent A. A. Beard.

Eight bids for construction of 550 feet of pipeline and catch basins for the Euclid avenue unit of the Katella Storm drain were opened this morning and referred to Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson for checking and report later in the afternoon.

BOY JUMPS UPON SLEEPING COYOTE

REGINA, Sask. (UP)—Henry Gilbertson, 12, had the unique experience of riding a coyote. The boy was walking across a field on his father's farm and took a running jump over a clump of Russian thistle, landing on the neck of a sleeping coyote.

The animal sprang up and after a brief sprint deposited young Gilbertson on the ground.

MANSFIELD, O.—(UP)—John D. Lewis, 91, and his wife, Harriet, 87, who have celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary, are in excellent health and has not been attended by a doctor for more than 40 years. The couple reared nine children of their own and two foster children.

OREGON SWEEP BY RAIN STORM

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 28.—(UP)—Storm warnings were flown along the Washington and Oregon coastlines today as the Pacific Northwest continued in the grip of a week-end gale and prepared for a fresh disturbance.

Western Oregon's heaviest rain storm in 25 years paralyzed transportation and communication facilities and caused numerous casualties.

A 65-mile-an-hour gale raged through Astoria, Ore., halting ship traffic, uprooting trees and resulting in many landslides. The steamer Europa and the Tanker Baldbutte had narrow escapes from damage.

The tug Ben Hur sank late yesterday in the swollen Willamette river, but two men aboard, Capt. Martin Ramsey and George Baggenston, were rescued by the tug George M. Brown.

Flood waters, the result of torrential rains, and slides resulted in closing of scores of highways in northwestern Oregon. Northwestern airlines grounded all planes.

Slides closed the Columbia River Highway, taking out all telegraph and telephone lines and isolating Astoria and the lower Columbia river.

Known deaths included Ralph H. McCullough, attorney, either electrocuted or drowned in the basement of his home here; two trainmen, John Malloy, 39, and Everett Wilson, 36, killed in a wreck near Washouak, Wash., and Mrs. Ray Hammond Mack, 48, killed near Bend in an automobile collision.

Sleeper Called To Confer With State

County Assessor James B. Sleeper has been requested to appear, presumably on a routine matter, before the State Board of Equalization in Sacramento next Thursday. No reason for the summons was given in the notice read to the board of supervisors today.

The purpose of the notice, it declared, was to inform the board that the trip is necessary and that the county shall pay Sleeper's expenses for the trip.

Court Notes

Mrs. Iona Harding, of Orange, today filed a petition in superior court to terminate the joint tenancy interest of her husband, the late Samuel Harding, who died December 22, in their property consisting of one lot. She also petitioned for letters of administration over his estate, consisting of a half-interest in the Grech Gold Leaf company, of Orange. Value of the estate was estimated to be $3500.

Executors of the Samuel Kraemer estate yesterday filed suit in superior court against William A. Thompson, Jr. and others, to quiet title to a tract of 21.72 acres situated in the Yorba district.

1937 PRODUCTS SET AT $10,570 AFTER SURVEY

Summary of the value of products produced by Orange County 4-H Club members in 1937 has shown these products to be valued at $10,570, Ross E. Crane of the farm advisor's office, announced today.

The total amount of money invested in producing these products, plus a charge of 10 cents an hour for the member's labor, amounted to $5,522. This left a net profit to the 204 boys and girls who completed their projects, of $5,048.

Fair Winnings Over $500

Not included in the foregoing figures are the cash awards received by members at three major fairs held during the year. These were the San Diego County Fair, the Los Angeles County Fair, and the Great Western Livestock Show. Cash awards received at these exhibitions were $150, $200 and $110, respectively. The large number of awards received indicate the excellent quality of the work done by these boys and girls.

State Figures Large

The value of all agricultural products produced by 4-H Club members in California during 1937 exceeded one-third of a million dollars, or $363,581, according to figures just released from the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of California. There were 10,924 members enrolled in 4-H work in California in 1937. The number completing their projects was 8,629.

In Orange county, the production of poultry and rabbits has been the most popular of projects among agricultural club members, although a considerable number of members have raised dairy calves, hogs, beef calves, tomatoes, beans, sweet potatoes and family gardens.

FORMER "SINGING COP" FROM ORANGE COUNTY NOW HEADED FOR ROME AND FAME IN OPERA

George W. Stinson, of the California Highway Patrol, the erstwhile "singing cop" of Orange county, today was ready to embark for Rome, where his golden tenor will be brought to grand opera pitch.

The San Francisco Grand Opera Merola, general director of the San Francisco Grand Opera Association, who had heard Stinson sing several years ago, gave him an audition recently and pronounced his prospects so brilliant that the association decided to sponsor the traffic officer's transformation into an operatic star.

Stinson, stopped in Los Angeles yesterday, en route to Rome, where he will study. His wife, Mrs. Frances Gibson Stinson, former theater organist, whom Stinson credits with much of his vocal success, is accompanying him.

In 1935, revenues received by American Class 1 railroads for the transportation of express traffic amounted to $53,328,422, in comparison to the 1934 figure of $54,013,025.

Eventually he was transferred to the San Francisco bay area for duty on the bay bridges. Gaetano

ORANGE COUNTY MAY AID FIGHT FOR SHIP ROUTE

Without taking formal action, the county supervisors today discussed contacting representatives in Washington on behalf of the McAdoo bill to subsidize inter-coastal shipping through the Panama canal, where the administration's increase of canal tolls is reported to be halting shipping on various lines.

The Orange county citrus industry is affected by the situation, it was pointed out at today's board meeting, after a copy of the San Francisco board of supervisors' resolution urging cooperative effort in the case, was read. The San Francisco board called attention to a hearing on the McAdoo measure in Washington January 17, and asked other counties to support the move designed to protect Pacific coast interests.

Citrus Industry Affected

Chairman Willard Smith stated that various steamship lines had been forced to discontinue service through the Panama canal, because of the increased schedules, which made the toll charges prohibitive. "Our own citrus industry is affected," said Smith.

Supervisor N. E. West asked whether the county should send somebody back to Washington to aid in the move.

"It wouldn't accomplish anything," said Smith, who said Los Angeles and San Francisco counties were doing everything possible in that respect, and that Orange county's cooperation could be directed toward contacting the congressmen and senators.

COMPENSATION TASKS DOUBLE FOR NEXT WEEK

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 28.—(Special.)—The State Department of Employment next week faces a double task, first, the processing of claims for Unemployment Compensation and second, completion of registration of employers hiring four to seven persons inclusive.

This announcement was made today by John S. Horn, member of the Unemployment Reserves Commission from Los Angeles.

Entitled To Benefits

Horn pointed out that while the jobless among the 1,300,000 covered workers are entitled to claim benefits January 3, some 300,000 workers in establishments hiring from four to seven persons inclusive are not yet covered.

"Registration of this employer group is important," Horn said, "if these workers are to qualify for benefits during the next two years."

"After their earning records have been on file with the department for six months, which will not be until September 30, 1938, they will be entitled to claim minimum benefits if jobless. Earnings for two years must be reported for this group to obtain maximum benefits."

Horn said some 50,000 employers throughout the state hiring from four to seven workers will be required to have their registration on file with the Department of Employment between now and the first of the year.

SALVATION ARMY HEAD TELLS GRATITUDE FOR AID IN DRIVE

Commending the generosity of the citizens of Santa Ana and Orange county for their unstinted contributions to the Salvation Army-Register Christmas Fund campaign, Major John Naton, commanding officer of the Salvation Army, today issued the following statement:

"On behalf of the Salvation Army I wish to thank the Register and all those who made possible the annual Salvation Army-Register Christmas Fund."

"It is a fine tribute to the type of people in the community and the type of newspaper that serves the community that such a campaign has been made possible and that Santa Ana can successfully conduct such a campaign."

"We who are active in this type of work know the need there is but it is only through the columns of the press that such things can be brought to public eye. The Salvation Army appreciates the publicity given by The Register which helped so much in bringing in the contributions necessary to carry out the Christmas program of Christmas baskets and dinners."

(Signed)

"JOHN NATON, Major."

Johnny Loftus, once one of the country's best riders, tilted back in a camp chair, stoked up his pipe and took an appraising glance at a finely made 3-year-old "cooling out" under the shed at Santa Anita.

"Yes," remarked Johnny, as he watched the horse approach, "he's got a chance at that $100,000 pot and maybe a rattling good chance." The horse was Pompoon, second only to War Admiral in the 3-year-old division this year, head and shoulders above any of the other 3-year-olds out the past season, and king of the juveniles in 1936.

Close to War Admiral
 In the Derby and Preakness it was War Admiral and Pompoon—the rest nowhere.

While Pompoon has War Admiral out of the way at Santa Anita, there's still Seabiscuit and other good ones to give him something to think about.

But Pompoon—if he stands the hard prep necessary to fit him for a mile and a quarter against top flight opposition—holds an excellent chance against any man's horse.

He ran War Admiral to a head and that's a fitting tribute, indeed.

Bad feet were attributed to his falling off this fall and there are so many conflicting stories concerning him that it's difficult to learn just what his condition was.

He was supposed to have had quarter cracks behind.

Hard To Forecast Chances
 Suffice to say now, that he's going sound and Trainer Loftus is taking particular pains to see that his feet get every attention. How, like Rosemont, it's hard to make an accurate forecast on his chances for the simple reason that he is not far enough advanced in his training. He hasn't had any hard, fast trials.

Pompoon looks about three weeks away from the races, is in excellent health and has done everything asked of him to date.

Santa Anita starts off 1938 with Seabiscuit making his bow in the New Year Stakes, as announced by the C. S. Howard stable recently when the "Biscuit" ducked the Christmas mile, and confirmed yesterday by the release of the official nominations for the $5000 added mile-and-one-sixteenth encounter.

Seabiscuit, which will be given top weight of not less than 130 pounds, will tangle with He Did, winner of the Christmas Stakes; Amor Brujo, Star Shadow, No Dice, Tick On, Gosum, Count Atlas, Count Edward, Pasha, Gleeman, Indian Broom and Sabueso. He will have Fair Knifess and Ad-voester for running mates.

Death yesterday took Albert Puccinelli's Sally's Booter, winner of the $10,000 Longacres Mile and $5000 Del Mar Handicap last summer. The horse was stricken suddenly.

He was the best thoroughbred raised in Oregon within the last 20 years and was a nominee for the Santa Anita Handicap.

Injury Fails To Check Sam Chapman

Sam Chapman, taking this lateral, is nursing two injured fingers on his bandaged left hand, but Vic Bottari, tossing the ball, is quick to say that his running mate for California is set for any play. Cuts on Chapman's digits required 11 stitches as the result of coming in contact with the shattered of a window pane. He and Bottari are expected to carry the bulk of the load for the Bears against Alabama in the Pasadena Rose Bowl.

BEARS CANCEL GAME IN L. A.

CHICAGO—(UP)—The Chicago Bears will play the Washington Redskins, professional football champions, in Texas next month but plans for a game in California have been dropped, Owner George Halas said today.

Sponsors were unable to obtain the Los Angeles Coliseum for a California game between the two teams, he said.

The Bears probably will play another game in Texas with a group of selected all-stars and may move from there to Florida for another game not yet scheduled.

18,000 WATCH STANFORD NIP N. Y. CAGEMEN

NEW YORK—(UP)—Another capacity crowd is expected in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night when Minnesota and Stanford shoot for a clean sweep over Eastern basketball rivals.

A crowd of 18,074 jammed the arena last night to see Minnesota, co-champion of the Big Ten, wallop Long Island University, 56-41, and Stanford, Pacific Coast conference titleholder, beat City College of New York, 45-42.

It exceeded by 75 persons the previous largest basketball turnout in this city and was believed to be a new record turnout for the sport in this country. Larger crowds were present at the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin.

Long Island put up a good fight at the start, once leading 11-10, then coming from behind twice to tie at 13-15 and 15-15, but by half time the accurate shooting Gophers had piled up a 34-21 margin and were never headed.

The Stanford-C.C.N.Y. was one of the most thrilling ever seen here, with the locals drawing up to within two points in the closing moments. The Cardinals led 32-20 with only seven minutes to play and looked like a sure thing, until their high-scoring center, Art Stofen, was ousted because of four personal fouls. The New Yorkers hacked away at that lead despite five straight field goals by Hank Luisetti, Stanford's All-America forward, and with a minute to go trailed 44-42.

Bernie Fliegel, City College center, muffed an opportunity that would have tied the score, and then he committed a foul that gave Bob Zonne a chance to add the clinching point for Stanford. Stofen was high scorer with 17 points—seven field goals and three fouls.

Luisetti, who was closely guarded, was content to feed the tall blond center, Luisetti made 14 points for second honors, one more than Paris, high man for C. C. N. Y. In tomorrow night's double-header, Stanford will meet Long Island, and Minnesota meets New York University.

Picks Good Place to Stop
 Friends really had Sanford going a year ago, when they telegraphed from Durant, Okla., that smallpox had broken out among Marquette players en route to the Cotton Bowl. Not even all his old wells going dry would have disturbed him more.

Six years ago J. Curtis Sanford left Birmingham, Ala., with $50 and an old car. He had been a mill hand by day and a boxing promoter by night.

His $50 and his gas ran out at Tyler. But the east Texas oil field was coming in and Sanford soon had a well for himself. Today, some tell you that he has 16 wells worth half a million. Others suspect that he isn't worth much more than $50,000.

Anyway, J. Curtis Sanford is vastly better off than when he quit Birmingham, and Santa Claus, a Tex Rickard, sucker, or just a sport buck, you're going to hear and read a lot more of him.

Profits Go for Scholarships
 J. Curtis—the J. stands for James—says, "I'm not a publicity hound, but am so much of a fight nut that I'm willing to go the limit." Still Sanford made a bet that he could obtain national publicity by spending $2. So he inserted a want ad that read, "For Sale: East Texas Oil Wells—Reason for selling: Going on Relief." He made practically every front page in the country and sold five wells for $35,000.

He offered Sir Malcolm Campbell $100,000 for Bluebird. He brought professional tennis matches to this district.

Sanford doesn't make a cent out of the Cotton Bowl production. Whatever profits there are go for scholarships for deserving boys at Texas colleges. Next to that, the game to Sanford is a lot of fun and a splendid medium for making friends. His ambition is to out-

Last year Cuyler played with Cincinnati.

'VOLUNTEERS' WORK AGAINST ALL-STARS
 SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—All-Star football squads of the East and West scrimmaged today against volunteer opposition in preparation for their annual Shrine benefit game here New Year's Day.

Bob Dakan, Stanford guard, recruited a pickup team of Stanford varsity and freshmen players with scatterings of San Francisco members of other conference schools' teams to condition the Western team which is working out on the Stanford campus.

SPORTS WHIRLIGIG; NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

Santa Anita's race season started with a bang for Bing Crosby and a bang for Tom Gwynne. The Register's handicapper put over four winners the first day and his first three horses in the Christmas Day Stakes were all in the money.

Gwynne topped all the handicappers at Santa Anita last winter and was in front by six lengths both at Bay Meadows and Tanforan this spring.

Pa-s-st Don't look now but Lewis Wetherell, the tennis champ, is wearing shorts on the courts these days. Looks O. K. too. Wetherell has a shapely pair of pins. . . . Bob Van Osdel, the onetime Trojan high-jumper, who tied for first place in the '32 Olympic Games and then lost to a team mate in the jump-off, is honey-mooning. She's the former Ruth Walter of Laguna Beach, where Van Osdel is now a practicing dentist. Bob sort of leaped the marital barrier, as it were. . . . Coast football teams pick no soft touches when they book intersectional opponents. Next season, U. S. C. plays Alabama and Ohio State, U. C. L. A. draws Iowa and Wisconsin, Stanford meets Dartmouth, Washington against Minnesota, Oregon has a date with Fordham and California takes on Georgia Tech unless Rose Bowl business interferes again. . . . Santa Ana's Saints were lucky to get "Stub" Allison as guest speaker for their big banquet in American Legion Hall Thursday night. The Sarge received exactly 44 invitations to appear at functions of one kind or another since the Bears got the Rose Bowl nod. Some of 'em came from alumni groups, too, and were indignant when Allison had to turn them down. Santa Ana has Johnny Lutz, Larry's cousin, to thank for getting in on the ground floor. . . . High school wisehelms are getting 'round the C. I. F. ban on spring football by organizing "rugby teams," which officials forbade to outlaw. Rugby is as near football as you can get without actually playing it, and a season is bound to help the growing grid. . . . Among the box seat holders at Santa Anita is Al Morgan, the Riverside softball magnate. Flash-Morrie Cohen of the Pasadena Cohans is making goo-goo eyes at the Orange County Athletic club but will have to up his price pull-enty before promoter Sam Sampson will listen. . . . San Bernardino is wondering what that "Southern California Football Board" could have been about when it snubbed Tackle Jim Simms on both all-jaysee teams. Tackle Simms, who is headed for Cal., was the best lineman in the Eastern conference, if our "Rusty" Roquet wasn't. . . . And, ask Santa Anans, where was Johnny Joseph, the best end Bill Cook says he ever coached?

Poor, poor Fullerton. Its No. 1 citizen, "Arky" Vaughn, is moving right after the first of January to his newly acquired ranch in the northwest corner of Mendocino county. In another year or so other members of the Vaughn tribe will join the Pittsburgh shortstop who is turning "gentleman farmer." . . . Fullerton fans belly-ache about the poor schedule arranged for them by Portland Beavers (who train at Fullerton) but what about San Bernardino? Pittsburgh trains at San Bernardino's Parris Hill park but plays all its exhibition games in Los Angeles. . . . Spalding's has written the junior college for a picture of the Don squad (and that team's record) to go in the 1938 football guide. . . . Kenny Dills, the Modesto Jaycee pole-vaulter, who did his high-schooling at Tustin, is at U. S. C. after trying vainly to register at Cal. and Stanford. When L. A. scribes get a peek at Dills they'll be raving about "Champion Maker" Cromwell's new star, forgetting that Kenny vaulted 14 feet at Modesto. . . .

Coaches Bill Foote, Joe Koegler and Reece Greene of the Champion Saint football squads are to be presented with handsome trophies at the high school's banquet. The gifts come from their players who chipped in at so much a head. . . . The Dons have closed for a home-and-home rugby series with Santa Barbara State, playing at the Municipal Bowl the night of Feb. 12 and in Santa Barbara Feb. 26. Bill Cook thinks rugby is the best possible conditioner for his gridlers.

N. C. A. A. MEN BEGIN SESSION

NEW ORLEANS.—Most of the nation's leading football coaches, athletic directors and collegiate sports figures gathered today for the annual conventions of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the American Football Coaches' Association during Sugar Bowl week.

First meeting of the N.C.A.A. was scheduled for tonight. The N.C.A.A. will continue through Wednesday and Thursday, with reports and discussions on the control, financing and conduct of inter-collegiate sports, presided over by President John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner of athletics.

The football coaches, most of whom are here except those engaged in coaching their teams for bowl games New Year's Day, will meet Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to discuss the various trends of the game, including possible rule changes.

One of the chief topics of discussion among the coaches was the Sugar Bowl game Saturday between Santa Clara, one of the nation's four major unbeaten teams, and Louisiana State, runner-up for the Southeastern title. "Tiny" Thornhill, Stanford coach whose team lost to Santa Clara, 13 to 7, on his arrival brought glowing praise for the Broncos.

"Santa Clara is a better team than in 1936," said Thornhill, "and Louisiana State will have to be considerably stronger than a year ago to win."

The Sugar Bowl sports program is well under way with a full calendar of events which will wind-up with a track meet of champions Sunday. High spot on today's program was the beginning of the Sugar Bowl tennis tournament with Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles, the nation's No. 2 ranking star, favored to come through the winner.

Riggs is seeded No. 1 and was slated to play Bill Sutter, New Orleans, in today's first match. Joe Hunt, Los Angeles, is seeded No. 2, Wayne Sabin, Hollywood, No. 3 and Dan McNeill, Oklahoma City, No. 4.

Santa Clara's squad of 36 players and about 250 supporters, en route here from the west, is due Thursday. The Broncos will hold a workout at Houston, Tex., Wednesday and then pass through here en route to their camp at Bay St. Louis, Miss.

High Strike, "Bing" Crosby's crack California-bred colt goes for the big money tomorrow, parading postward the favorite for the $10,000 California Breeders' Champion Stakes. High Strike has scored six straight victories but this is the first time he has been asked to go a route.

Harry Hatch, Toronto breeder and sportsman, will auction off his stable Jan. 15. Such good ones as Ariel Cross, Sweepstaff, King Kong, Kandahar and others go under the hammer.

With coaches varying their tactics according to situations, the season of 1937 might be listed as one of unusual defenses.

Because the offense was pretty well throttled thereby, there now is some demand for bringing the ball in 15 yards from the sidelines instead of 10, and putting the goal posts back on the goal line.

Clint Frank-Whizzer White-Marshall Goldberg—the power of Pittsburgh and California—Minnesota's reverses at the hands of Nebraska and Notre Dame—Vanderbilt's trick play—a high school boy by the name of Bill De Corvont—

And professionally, the brilliant stretch drive of the Washington Redskins—their swamping the New York Giants—Sammy Baugh's phenomenal passing against the Chicago Bears on a frozen Soldiers' Field—

We give you, in retrospect, the 1937 season—a campaign crammed full of thrills and action, but which possibly will be remembered most for the startling number of fine backs who roamed the nation's gridirons.

Multiplicity of Star Backs
Attendance increased over 1936 at practically every stadium in the land. Rain, snow, and cold, couldn't keep 'em away.

Pickers of all-star teams almost floundered under an avalanche of outstanding backs, such as Yale's Frank, awarded the Heisman trophy as the outstanding player of the year; Colorado's amazing White, the nation's leading scorer; Goldberg of Pitt, mightiest ball-carrier of them all; Joe Kilgore of the Alabama workhorse; Sam Chapman of California; Sid Luckman, Columbia's ace passer; Little David O'Brien of Texas Christian, and a good many more.

The southwest came up with 210-pound Ernie Lane, the most remarkable substitute in years. Until Lane, previously out with injury, entered the lineup in the fourth game, Rice hadn't scored a point. But passed by this terrific sophomore, who did not start a game, the Owls wound up with the Southwest Conference title.

Pitt and Fordham played their third consecutive scoreless tie, and made it 150 minutes of the most bruising sort of football without a point being tallied.

120,000 See Prep Game
Experts blinked when Carnegie Tech upset Notre Dame, Indiana rudely howled over Ohio State, and Minnesota bowed to Notre Dame. Vanderbilt repulsed Louisiana State by the simple procedure of having Ricketson, a tackle, hatch a hidden ball and run 55 yards for a touchdown, while the Tigers chased everybody but the referee.

The largest football crowd in history—120,000—packed Soldiers' Field to see Bill De Corvont in action. A mere high school youth who scored 210 points in 10 games.

There was the bitter fight for the All-America center berth, waged by Alex Wojciehowicz of Fordham; Carl Hinkle of Vanderbilt; Bob Herwig of California, and Charley Brock of Nebraska—the best crop of pivot men in the past decade.

Not to forget a sensational 66-yard pass completed for a touchdown against Southern California by Kenny Washington, spectacular U. C. L. A. Negro halfback.

Fans were handed another element of surprise when Pitt, because of so much talk of professionalism, beat the various bowl committees to the jump, and decided to turn down any post-season invitations that might be extended to the Panthers.

Michigan dismissed Harry Kipke, Harry Mehre and Chick Meehan resigned at Georgia and Manhattan, respectively. Alumni made Mehre's position unbearable. Meehan decided to make business a fulltime job.

Football hasn't changed in that respect. A losing coach still takes it on the chin.

While Rowan may be a comer, the has-beens can make a game of it in Australia because competition isn't keen. "They're English and little fellows down there," LeMon explained.

Rowan, whom LeMon tried to tempt into the fight game at the Highway arena, has won 53 of his 54 bouts and has been especially impressive in the Australian ring.

"You know my brother would do all right down there," explains Rowan. "He isn't what you call a finished fighter, but he can mix it and he throws a lot of leather. That's what they want. They want action—lots of it and they want to see new faces."

"I am going to have a talk with his manager and see if I can take him down there with me for the next three months. If I can I can pick up a little Jack."

Australians are a sport loving lot, the Mexican gladiator pointed out. They pack the horse race emporiums, wrestling stadiums and go 100 per cent for cricket matches.

Sydney is the only place where boxing seems to go over in a big way. Wrestling has cut in on the fighters' purses in Melbourne, Brisbane and Adelaide.

"It sure is nice down there. I wish I were there right now. It's summer you know. If I can get my passport so I can stay six months instead of the three-month tourist allowance, I'll see some of the country."

The expedition which LeMon heads consists of three fighters. He goes as their trainer and fights occasionally himself. Australian promoters, guarantee a round trip ticket to the Antipodes before they step on ship at San Francisco.

Two of the four scheduled matches are billed for two out of three falls with the undefeated "Black Dragon" due to meet his toughest opposition in "Wild Red" Berry in the closing bout.

The "Black Dragon" enters Thursday night's match with a $30 bonus on his head, which will go to Berry if he wins.

In the first three-falls "finish" match, Bobby Roberts, former light-heavyweight champion, and rated by many as the most scientific grappler of his weight in the game, tackles Marshall Carter, the Missouri University favorite.

"Terrible Ted" Christy, brother of Vic Christy, faces Vic Jarbo, a newcomer. Frankie Hill wrestles Sailor Trout.

Sleepy Jim Crowley is only the third football coach in Fordham history who has directed the Rams for more than two years in a row. The Horseman recently completed his fifth season.

CROWLEY AN EXCEPTION

COLLEGE CAGE SEASON OPENS WITH 2 GAMES

LOS ANGELES.—Purdue and Indiana, squads give Southland intercollegiate basketball an auspicious opening with doubleheaders tonight and Wednesday at the Pan-Pacific auditorium.

Both Boilermakers and Hoosiers worked out at the Pan-Pacific Monday while the Trojans and Bruins also tried out the new auditorium floor in advance of the inter-sectional contests.

Southern California and Purdue meet in the feature battle of the series at 7:45 with U.C.L.A. and Indiana following at 9:15. Tomorrow night the Trojans again play the first game, meeting Indiana, with U.C.L.A. and Purdue tangling in the wind-up.

With Southern California and Purdue both undefeated in early season games and with the Trojans averaging better than 50 points and the Boilermakers averaging close to 60, it is expected that the opening battle will attract a capacity crowd of $500.

Manager Cliff Henderson of the Pan-Pacific announced that the basketball floor has been raised three feet to insure good visibility from every seat and that improvement in lighting and heating now makes the auditorium one of the best basketball pavilions in the country.

RUN $10,000 STAKE AT SANTA ANITA WED.

ARCADIA.—(UP)—Two rich purses, the $10,000 California Breeders' Stakes tomorrow and the $5000 added New Year Stakes, were the week's features as racing at Santa Anita park was resumed today.

Competition over the mile course for the Breeders' stakes, most valuable ever to be offered California thoroughbreds, was expected to be keen. The New Year Stakes may lure Seabiscuit, withdrawn from the Christmas opening because Jockey "Red" Pollard was declared ineligible to ride. Pollard was permitted to ride again Jan. 1.

Sheriff's deputies said they were prepared today for a threatened attempt to operate direct wire betting agencies, recently ruled a violation of the state racing act. The release of 17 of 21 men arrested Christmas Day with the understanding they leave the state. The other four were held.

An autopsy into the death of Sally's Booter, Pacific Coast hand-laid champion, was to be performed today. The five-year-old gelding died yesterday.

FULLERTON.—"Aw, they're not so good Down Under," Romeo 12-Mon, battle-scarred veteran of the prize ring, said today as he told of his exploits in the Sydney Sports Ground. "They couldn't be if I can lick 'em."

The Fullerton heavyweight has seen his best days in the prize ring, but he plans another expedition to Australia Jan. 15 when he will take Clay Rowan, his protégé, and possibly his brother, Lupe, the stocky cave-man who once was Sam Sampson's main gate attraction at the Orange County Athletic club.

While Rowan may be a comer, the has-beens can make a game of it in Australia because competition isn't keen. "They're English and little fellows down there," LeMon explained.

HOMER CANFIELD'S PAID GAZING

ALLAN JONES, a frequent visitor to Good News of 1938, says (quote) "I change my shoes four times a day. It helps me to relax (unquote) . . . Jack Benny looks as if he'd struck a new low after seeing the premiere of 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.' "It looks like a long hard winter," the comic

Homer Canfield commented. "Between Charlie McCarthy and Snow White and the dwarfs, a human being hasn't got a chance in the show business any more."

Ken Carpenter is hiding behind anything which will conceal his bulk these days. Because he will help announce the Rose Bowl grid classic, his friends think he should be able to get them tickets.

As if McCarthy wasn't enough for Jack Benny to worry about, Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and other members of the Disney family are industriously working on their air series which premieres January 2. When contacted for interviews, they made the following comments:

M. Mouse: "I feel very happy about the whole thing—although I don't see why they need Donald Duck in the cast."

D. Duck: "Well, at last I'll get a chance to show that Mickey Mouse where he gets off. And I'll show that Disney for billing me below a mouse. Who does he think he is anyway?"

Minnie Mouse: "Oh, I do hope everything comes out all right." Pluto was in the dog house and couldn't be reached for an interview.

Morse Show . . . renewed

Effective January 1, Carlton E. Morse's One Man's Family will start out on a fresh full-year renewal with the same sponsor.

It's interesting to note, I think, that the original members of the cast are the same after nearly five years on the air: J. Anthony Smythe is Father Barbour; Minnie Allen, Mother Barbour; Michael Rafferty, Paul; Bernice Berwin, Hazel; Barton Varborough, Clifford; Kathleen Wilson, Claudia, and Page Gilman is Jack.

Originally produced in San Francisco, the Sunday and Wednesday night editions now come from Hollywood. Morse estimates that he has written more than 2,000 words about the Barbours.

Morse's program, but we now find Morse working on the twenty-fourth volume of the program. And it appears that One Man's Family will more than likely become a permanent resident of the airwaves.

Program Parade . . . notes

Lum 'n' Abner are the guests of Hollywood Mardi Gras. Grandpaw Sneed is sure to give them a royal welcome. Next week Walter O'Keefe signs up as a regular cast member, which certainly makes an item for the old date book. (KFI, 6:30)

Mrs. Al Johnson—Ruby Keeler to the public—will share honors with Paul Whiteman on the Mammy Singer's half-hour.

Songs programmed by Al are "Kissie, You Are My Posie," "Nice Work If You Can Get It" and "Once In A While." Martha Raye promises a sweet-swing rendition of "Number 20 In The Book." (KNX, 8:30)

Horace Heidt's Brigadiers find a different network and a new day and time ready to carry their weekly commercial. (KFI, 6)

I, for one, like this new schedule. It means that we'll not be forced to choose between Fibber McGee and Heidt hereafter on Mondays.

Dis & Data . . . shorts

Sound effects victim of the week: The Warner Brothers stagehand who patiently waited for his number after dialing a dummy telephone on Stage 9, the scene of your Hollywood Parade rehearsal.

Kenny Baker expressed great glee over a handsome brown leather brief case which he found under his Christmas tree. However, Kenny doesn't feel any more comfortable about the gift now for on opening it proved full of songs. It was from a song-plugger, and the tenor couldn't find one among them that he'd like to sing on the air.

Lum 'n' Abner have one resolution they renew every New Year's: Never to allow an off color word or suggestive phrase to creep into their scripts.

INQUEST PLANNED IN WOODS DEATH

Inquest in the death of Lloyd Ernest Woods, 35, oil company employee of Brea, who was fatally injured Friday afternoon at Stewart stop of the Pacific Electric, near La Habra, when a Pacific Electric car and his automobile collided, has been called. It is scheduled for late today at McQuay and Suters funeral chapel, Fullerton, Coroner Earl Abbey reported.

C. E. Stas, 47, Hollywood, riding in the street car, was taken to the Fullerton general hospital for treatment for injuries received in the crash. Woods died at the same hospital early Christmas morning.

Police News

Arrested by Anaheim police, Harold Donaker, 35, 183 North Waverly, Orange, was booked at county jail yesterday on a drunk driving charge.

Accused of violating probation, Vincente Yorba, 18, Route 2, Anaheim, appeared at county jail yesterday afternoon, voluntarily, and gave himself up to serve out a suspended sentence, officials reported.

Charged in a bench warrant with failure to support his unborn child, Fred Diaz, 18, Orange, was arrested last night at Third and Artesia streets, Santa Ana.

Lloyd Moore, 946 West Pine, reported to police last night that he routed a "peeping Tom" who appeared at his home, and asked that officers watch the place. The "peeper" is described as an American, five feet, eight inches tall, weighing about 145 pounds and wearing grey or white sweater and dark trousers.

Burglars who used a pass key, apparently, entered the home of William Fisher, 723 East Pine street, recently, and stole a leather traveling case, fountain pen and pencil valued at $12, he informed police yesterday.

C. Arriola, 705 Stafford, told police he found an abandoned bicycle yesterday. The bicycle was returned to the owner, Paul Bradford.

Police were unable to locate the person who may have hurled a stone through a garage window at the Asa Vandermast home, 425 South Birch, recently, Assistant Chief Harry Fink said. The stone cracked a car window. At first, it was believed a bullet had done the damage. The tire of a passing car might have hurled the stone, police said.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"Thanks, lady—it's kind of you, but I've et nothin' but turkey for the past week."

"I DIDN'T MOVE FAST ENOUGH," WIFE SAYS MATE BLACKED EYE

Mrs. Francisca Soria of Jackson street, west of Santa Ana, escorted a splendid Christmas black eye into the district attorney's office yesterday.

Assistant District Attorney Preston Turner admired the rainbow effect briefly, and decided against saying Merry Christmas. Instead, he pulled a blank complaint from his desk.

"All right," he said, "I can see what. But who, when, where and why?"

"My husband, Ignacio," she responded cheerfully. "He says I should feed the dog, and I said I would. But I didn't move fast enough."

"You sign it here," said Turner, pointing to the line at the bottom of the page. "It says assault and battery."

...in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.—Every day, parading the Boulevard, you see Hollywood's nit-wit mamas and their artificial little hopefals. Little girls with long, blondened curls, patent leather pumps, tinted eyelashes and pink silk dresses barely long enough to cover their midriffs. Little girls with sweet-smile smiles as phony as the painted smile on the face of a French doll. Little girls with skinny, bare legs that shiver in the cold wind. There ought to be a law.

The mothers, grim-faced and militant, sweep along like juggernauts. They talk about nothing but the talent of their children—and yet they seem perfectly willing to sacrifice their children to their own ambition. Not one of those harlequin little dolls—or prissy little boys—is leading a natural life. One in a hundred may reach first base in the battle for movie success, but every one in a hundred is almost certain to lose something out of his or her childhood that no amount of success can replace.

Hollywood has been indicted on a great many counts, but none, to my way of thinking, is so serious as the fact that it encourages the sacrifice of normal childhood.

All Hollywood is watching with interest a "situation" which has developed at Paramount. A few weeks ago that studio signed a vaudeville headliner named Nell Kelly. If you have seen her on the stage you undoubtedly remember her, for she is a comedy riot. She has a mouth as big as Martha Raye's. When she sings—and how she sings!—she twists her face and body into the most grotesque postures. She is the world's champion exponent of pep—a comedienne who has capitalized on her lack of beauty. In other words—another Martha Raye. It is not in the cards for any one studio to want—or need—two comediennes so much alike. And Martha has been quarreling with the studio bosses. Today, I saw Martha standing on the sidelines, watching Nell make a test. And there was nothing comic in her expression.

A new Goldwyn story today. Seems that Sam was sitting with his hired henchmen in the studio projection room, viewing a rough cut of "The Goldwyn Follies." One

LOCAL ARBITRATION BOARD TO MEET TOMORROW TO DISCUSS
JAPANESE FIELD LABOR WAGES

Official notification that the Orange County Arbitration board governing relations between Japanese employers and employe groups of field workers will meet tomorrow at 9 a. m. in the office of the state labor commissioner, state building, Los Angeles, was received here today from Thomas Barker, deputy state labor commissioner. Barker is one of the three arbitration board members.

The board will hear request of the employers for permission to reduce wages of the field workers from 30 cents per hour for a nine-hour day to 25 cents, and request of the field workers, chiefly Mexican, represented by Lucas Lucio of Santa Ana, for an increase from 30 cents for a nine-hour day to 37 cents.

Barker asked Lucio to appear at the meeting with a committee of the workers. He agreed to do so. The growers also are expected to send a committee.

Other Requests
Other arbitration board members are W. H. (Ted) Blanding, Santa Ana, and Harry Zimmer, Anaheim.

A supplementary request of the workers' group is that tractor operators and teamsters be paid 39 cents per hour. They also ask that the operation of the contract system in harvesting of chili pods be disregarded "for well-being of workers." They ask banishment of any other system of contracting in chili pod harvesting, also. Employer groups state they cannot afford to pay more than 25 cents for field laborers.

Lucio said he would quote from reports of Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., which made a national survey of agricultural and wage conditions, when he appears at tomorrow's meeting. The figures quoted are in connection with the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas.

S. A. Kiwanis To Hear L. A. Lawyer

David Coleman, Los Angeles attorney, formerly of the district attorney's office will be the chief speaker at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club tomorrow noon at the Masonic Temple. Coleman will speak on "The Public Attitude Toward Crime." Senator Harry Westover will be program chairman.

Won Her Suit

Peggy Hopkins Joyce's famous smile deserted her as she sat, above, in Los Angeles court, nervously massaging the fingers of a broken arm while she countered accusations of a film company that a 12-year-old note for $20,000 remains unpaid. The smile returned when a verdict was returned in her favor.

JACKSON DAY
FETE PLANNED

Reorganization of the Orange County unit of the California Assembly of Democrats and observance of Jackson Day will be highlights of the meeting of the Assembly, scheduled for 8 p. m. Friday, Jan. 7. The meeting will be in the Junior College auditorium. H. C. Head, recently elected chairman of the Orange county unit of the Assembly, succeeding Chester Dale, said that a revised set of by-laws will be presented for action by members of the organization.

Observing Jackson Day, which falls on Jan. 8, J. Frank Burke, Editor of the Air, will be the speaker on the program to follow the business meeting. All Democrats, whether or not they are members of the Assembly, are invited to attend the meeting.

FRANK TRUE DIES
AT HEMET HOME

Word was received here today of the death of Frank True, 75, former Santa Ana resident, at his ranch home in Hemet. Mr. True died Sunday night following a heart attack. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the Harford chapel in Hemet. Brief Masonic rites will be conducted at the graveside in Fairhaven cemetery, Santa Ana, at 2 p. m.

Mr. True came to Santa Ana in 1893 and engaged in the contracting and ranching business until 15 years ago when he moved to Hemet where he has made his home since.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Anna True, and two sisters, Mrs. Laura Dyke, Nashua, New Hampshire and Mrs. Mett Barnett of Palo Alto, Calif.

Youthful Gaiety Rules
Over Yule Season
In Timmons Home

"Twas the night before Christmas" most decidedly Friday out at the cheerful big ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons on Red Hill avenue, but the remainder of the stanza from the famous old poem, about no creature stirring, could not apply, for there was a constant stream of gay young people, guests of Miss Betty Timmons.

The occasion was a Christmas Eve open house for Miss Betty's host of friends, and the majority of them arrived early and lingered late to dance to radio music, to play games and enjoy the towering Christmas tree, which followed the family preference for green boughs sparkling with ornaments in all the bright Yule colors.

Refreshments were served informally from a table prettily decorated and temptingly filled with dainties, where Mr. and Mrs. Timmons and Miss Eleanor Cogan assisted.

The evening's gay features culminated in a more formal tea at which Miss Timmons presided in the afternoon, assisted by the Misses Jo Flaherty and Patricia Emison.

Host Quartet Presides
At Gaily Informal
Buffet Supper

Sunday night buffet supper, one of the most delightful forms of entertaining, was chosen by the Milan M. Millers and the Sheldon Russells, as a means of celebrating the Southland holiday visit of Mr. and Mrs. Russell.

It was in the Miller home, 1509 North Main street, that friends were received amidst the cheerful appointments that began with the famous outdoor Christmas tree that sparkles from the front porch throughout the holiday season. Small foursome tables were arranged for the enjoyment of the menu served from a table whose colorful appointments were repeated in miniature on each table.

After supper hours were given over to the gayest and most frivolous of games, with equally gay and frivolous little prizes awarded wholesale. Present with the quartet of hosts were the Chester Hortons, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Lee Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Glines, Miss Frances Eggo, Miss Grace Robertson, the Bernard Parkers, the Roscoe Conklins and the J. F. Hersheys of this city, with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hartwell of Montebello.

The Sheldon Russells, who left earlier in the winter for a new home in Sacramento, are here for a holiday visit with Mrs. Russell's mother, Mrs. Laura McNaught, 701 West Fifth street.

GISLER FAMILY

Once again Sam Gisler assembled members of his family for a holiday party in his home, 715 South Ross street, this year's event taking place Sunday. The host's daughters, Mrs. Merton Penhall of Cypress and Mrs. Harold Fallon of San Bernardino, prepared and served dinner.

Guests of Mr. Gisler were Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Gisler and family, Oxnard; Mr. and Mrs. R. Harper and family, Talbert; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Krukenberg and family, Norwalk; Mr. and Mrs. Merton Penhall and family, Cypress; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gisler, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Gisler and son, Greenville; Ernest Gisler, Huntington Beach; Mrs. Josephine Sheeley, Sunset Beach; Robert Gilchrist, Sunset Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fallon and daughter, Patty Lou, San Bernardino.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gisler of Huntington Beach were the only absent members of the family.

FILM CLASSICS
COME MIDWEEK

"Lost Horizon," acclaimed all over the world as a great picture, starring Ronald Colman, and "All Baba Goes to Town," one of Eddie Cantor's greatest starring vehicles, double-bill at Walker's theatre beginning Wednesday.

In "Lost Horizon," Edward Everett Horton, H. B. Warner, Jane Wyatt, Margo, John Howard, Thomas Mitchell, Isabel Jewel, Sam Jaffe in the much discussed High Lama role, and other players, are featured.

Briefly, the story concerns five persons who are kidnapped in an airplane and flown deep into forbidden Tibet, the lamaseri of Shangri-La.

Here, cloistered securely by mountains impenetrable to the uninitiated, is a setting of indescribable beauty and serenity, peopled by members of the strangest cult of modern times. Romance and adventure fall to the bewildered kidnap victims.

"All Baba Goes to Town," is as comically Cantorish as anything could be, a magnificent combination of colorful extravaganza, Gypsy Rose Lee, Alan Dinehart and scores more of notables are in the cast. "Donald's Ostrich," short, and news are offered, also.

Mystery, Football
Featured at State

"Thief Meets Thief," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., a cleverly plotted, fast-moving, humorous, mystery story, in Santa Ana for the first time, and "Over the Goal," comedy-drama of college-football life, with William Hopper, June Travis, Mabel Todd, Raymond Hatton and many others, co-bill beginning tomorrow at the State theatre.

"Crazy's Race of Time," short, is an added attraction. Much of

AMERICAN AIRLINES
ADDS CAPITAL STOP

American Airlines, Inc. announces another step in the progress of its now famous Transcontinental Route. The popular American Mercury, departing from Los Angeles eastbound at 4:30 p. m. daily, has added Washington as its third point of call, according to the Julia Ann Hyde Travel Bureau.

The American Mercury Sky-sleeper will arrive in the Nation's Capitol City at 10:15 a. m., thus setting a precedent in air service to the White House as the fastest schedule as well as the only direct service.

American Airlines schedule still provides for the same arrival time in New York—11:55 a. m. This service will make possible, without change of planes, a leisurely full course dinner, a full night's rest in a twin bed sized berth, and a light breakfast, arriving in time for a day's work; or, if the trip is for pleasure, a day for sightseeing in Washington before boarding another American Flagship for a dinner-time arrival in New York.

The now famous Southerner, departing from Los Angeles at 10:30 p. m., will still serve Washington directly, providing a late departure from Los Angeles and an afternoon arrival in Washington and New York.

TOP GRADES TO WOMEN

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(UP)—A survey of grades during the last semester of 1936-37 at the University of New Mexico reveals that women held the edge over men. Women averaged 1.492 to the men's 1.3886. Seniors made better grades than the freshmen.

college lift, and several collegiate songs by the hit-writing team of Jerome and Schell, are presented in "Over the Goal." Several reel life as well as reel life football players are presented, among them several from Santa Ana, it was revealed.

There will be lectures, personal analysis and class demonstration

BUST THAT COLD
WIDE OPEN

Don't Merely Humor It!

Deal with a cold in earnest. Deal with it in seriousness.

A cold is too fraught with danger to be taken lightly. Many a case of flu and pneumonia has started with nothing more than a "common cold."

Treat a cold for what it is—an internal infection. Therefore, internal treatment.

Treat a cold with a preparation made for colds and not a "cure-all."

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets) are what you want.

They are made expressly for the treatment of colds and not for all kinds of ailments.

They are internal in effect and do four important things.

First, they open the bowels

Second, they check the infection in the system.

Third, they relieve the headache and fever.

Fourth, they tone the system and help fortify against further attack.

Bromo Quinine tablets are a proven preparation. They have been on the market over 40 years and are the world's largest-selling cold tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. Both kinds are sold by all druggists, a few cents a box.

When you feel a cold coming on—don't wait—don't procrastinate—go right to your druggist and get a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets).

Say "No" to substitutes!

Mixing Bowl

BY ANN MEREDITH

Women gurgled along about the "exquisite texture" or the "divine" something of chiffon lemon pie; I'll do my gurgling, here and now, about the homely virtues of old fashioned lemon meringue pie, because, properly made, it is so far ahead of the chiffoned edition... but why talk about it!

For a pie serving six, you will need three eggs, one smallish cup of sugar, the grated rind of a large lemon and the juice of 1½ lemons, one cup boiling water, two tablespoons butter (rounded) and two tablespoons of flour rubbed smooth in a little cold water. Now, my children, there is a trick in making a beautifully jellied lemon base, and this is it:

NEVER cook the egg yolks with the lemon base, and DO cook the lemon base a full 20 minutes over hot water. So-o-h, put into the double boiler, lemon juice, grated rind, sugar, butter and hot water. Bring it to a full boil, pour in the thickening and stir constantly until thick and semi-clear. Leave the filling to cook from this moment on for 20 minutes, take off the fire and to that hot lemon base add the egg yolks, beaten to a thick golden froth, then strained for obvious reasons. Stir through the hot base, pour lemon jelly into the baked crust, let it stand while you beat the egg whites to a stiff meringue (add six tablespoons of sugar while beating). Spread over the hot pie and brown lightly in a slow oven.

You'll find the calorie pedigree of lemon pie in the big calorie list. Send for it, today; please enclose a stamped envelope and contribute one of your own favorite tested recipes for the benefit of other readers.

It was said by some wag, that "A modern food expert is one who can look at a calf and tell how many chicken sandwiches it will make." We'll just take him up on that and add a small chunk of veal or lean pork to a chicken that is stewing for dinner. Add left-over chicken to the meat and chop it... there you have the filling for sandwiches or, in this case the chicken salad used to fill the lime grapefruit ring salad for Sunday supper.

Lime-Grapefruit Ring With Chicken Salad

1 box lime flavored fruit gelatine
1 cup boiling water
1 cup ice water
Juice of a lemon
2 large grapefruit peeled and sections taken out whole.

Arrange the grapefruit sections in a ring mould and chill until firm in the lime gelatine. Turn onto a garnished platter, nick the inner edge of the ring to make it large enough to hold a generous quantity of chicken salad. Garnish with celery hearts filled with creamy cheese, and have plenty of stuffed olives on platter.

Walnut Angel Parfait

1 cup sugar cooked with
1/2 cup boiling water until it spins
a thread when dropped from spoon tip

3 egg whites beaten stiff
1 tsp vanilla
1/3 tsp almond extract
1 cup ground walnuts
1 pint double cream, whipped.

Pinch of salt

The boiling syrup having reached the "thread" stage, is poured slowly over the egg whites, the beating being constant. When cool enough to make good frosting, add nuts, salt and flavoring, and combine smoothly with whipped cream. Pack in freezing pan and do not disturb during six hours of freezing.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Elliott and daughter, Onnolee, 1032 West First street spent Christmas with Mrs. Elliott's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Oakford of Beverly Hills. The Elliotts were accompanied home by their niece, Miss June Oakford, who will remain here for several days.

IN MOUNTAIN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund West and small son, Eddie Jr., 726 Kilson Drive, accompanied by Mrs. West's brother and sister-in-law, the J. B. Stephensons Jr. and Ralph Dawson of Tustin, had a gala holiday week-end in Descanso, with Forest Ranger and Mrs. J. B. Stephenson, where the crisp winter atmosphere gave a joy all its own to the celebration.

For the gala dinner party of Christmas day, Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson were hosts to the group from this community, together with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cooley, Descanso, Victor H. Martin, Los Angeles, Miss Winifred Snyder, Bill, Eric, Martin and "Gene" Stephenson.

The big Christmas tree, fresh and green from its home in the Cuyamaca mountains, was scene of a gay gift exchange in the afternoon. Duplicates of this beautiful tree were seen in many Santa Ana homes, for J. B. Stephenson always expresses his Christmas greetings to a few relatives and close friends by the delighted gift of mountain evergreens. They decked this holiday season, the Terry E. Stephenson home as well as that of the Terry Stephenson Jr. where Master Terry the Third had his first Christmas tree. The Bernard Parkers had one of the beautiful gifts as did the Edmund Wests, the J. B. Stephensons Jr., and Miss Stella Groff.

There is a new electric ironer on the market that fits into a neat white cabinet when it is not in use. The cabinet rolls easily if the ironer has to be moved before being used.

sequence roused his ire. "Those scenes are lousy, they are terrible!" he shouted. "We will eliminate them. Mr. Goldwyn," agreed the chief cutter. "Listen," roared Sam, "Who is running this studio, you or me? I want those scenes cut out entirely, not eliminated."

John Brown, manager of the world-famous Coconut Grove, argues that the best entrée to a motion picture contract and stardom is a job as entertainer in any one of Hollywood's outstanding night clubs, and to support his contention offers a list of no less than sixty-three former Grove entertainers who have made a name on the screen. The No. 1 example, of course, being Bing Crosby. Brown, a modest man, contends that the skill of entertainers is not as important in the equation as the melo-dramatic state of the producers whom they entertain.

Speaking of Bing Crosby reminds me that the Crooner is a very chastened man today. Between scenes on his new picture, he has been teaching Mary Carlisle to play poker, a game she "didn't understand." To date the effort has cost Mr. Crosby about $160. This morning, visiting on the set, I asked Mary what sort of poker player he is. "Not so good," she twinkled, "but his game is improving."

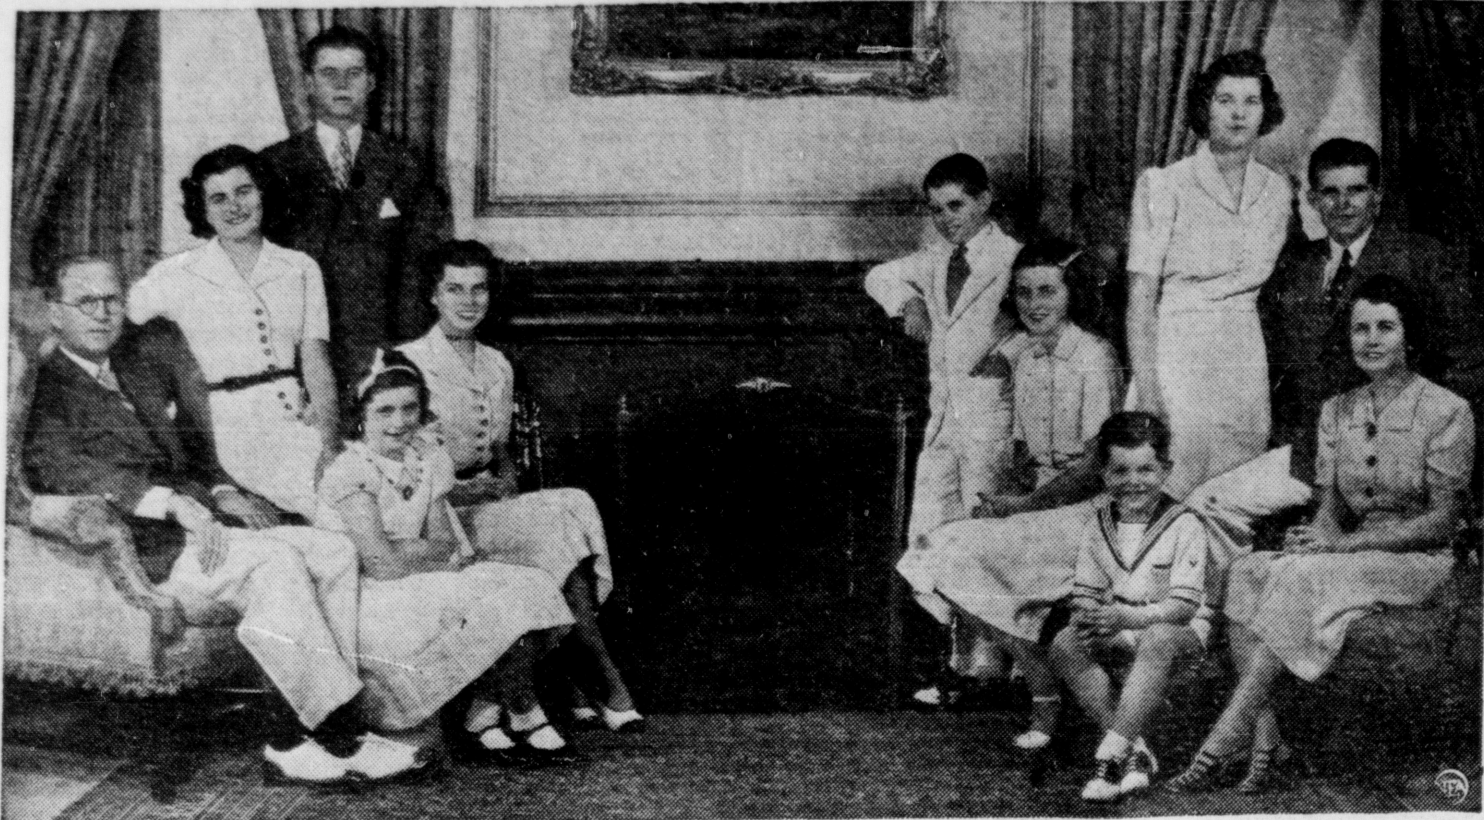

Shirley Temple's amazing popularity in the United States is less amazing than her popularity in England. Johnny Bull took her to his heart with her first picture and has placed her on a loftier pedestal with each succeeding film. Her fan club in England, with headquarters in London, has a membership of more than two millions. American newspapers and magazines have frequently been put on the pan for carrying so much copy about Shirley, but our editors are pikers compared to the English. One London newspaper has had a standing order for more than two years on file with its Hollywood correspondent. Each week he must CABLE six hundred words about Shirley Temple.

Watched Claudette Colbert play an emotional scene in which she alternately raged and cried. "How do you do it—how do you work yourself up to such a pitch?" I demanded when the scene was finished. "All I need to do is think about my income tax!"

Then there's John Boe's classic gag: "Hollywood is a great town. They marry here for better and for worse, all right—but not for long!"

LEGISLATORS' WORDS COSTLY
VICTORIA, B. C. (UP)—A mathematician in the parliamentary press gallery here has figured that every word spoken by a member of the legislature costs the taxpayer 14 cents.

Yes, Indeed! Next U.S. Envoy To Britain Is A Family Man

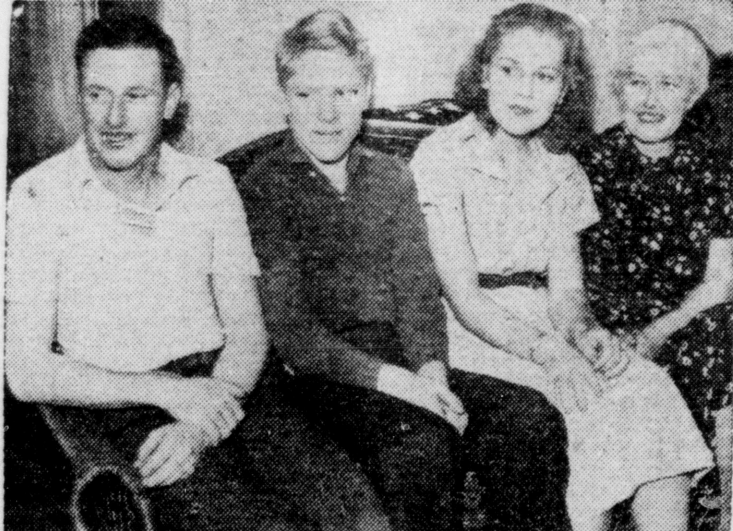

If Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the Maritime Commission, were to take his family to London after he is appointed U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, as authoritative reports have indicated, America would have quite a diplomatic delegation at the Court of St. James. He is pictured, above, with Mrs. Kennedy, seated at right, in their Washington home. By their father's chair are Patricia, 13; John F., 20; Jean, 9, and Eunice, 16. Grouped about their mother are Rosemary, 19; Joseph, Jr., 22; Robert, 12; Kathleen, 17, seated; and Edward, 6.

Drinking for Safety's Sake

Having a swell time trying to "turn" a corner with a bottle of beer in one hand, Truck Driver Edward Guich, above, is shown as he participated with seven other willing truck pilots in drunken driving tests conducted by the Detroit Safety Council. The council gave each man all he wanted to drink, then tested reactions on a laboratory "auto-mobile." Results were inconclusive, because one man "drove" better after drinking than when he was stone sober.

In 'Wife Trading' Quadrangle

Romance juggled the families of two prominent Southern California couples with the result that Mrs. Hortense Voss, 50, married John Voss, 30, while Ira Ashcroft, 54, married the former Mrs. Louise Voss, now Mrs. Ashcroft, 27. Principals in the strange "spouse trade" are Mrs. Hortense Voss and John Voss with her 15-year-old adopted twins, above, and Ira Ashcroft and his young bride below.

Wedded Bliss

If there's anything in a name, marriage will be one long period of bliss for Barbara Field, heiress to the great Chicago merchandising fortune, pictured leaving the Church of Heavenly Rest in New York as the bride of Anthony A. Bliss, scion of one of Gotham's most prominently social families. The lace veil and train worn by the bride is a family heirloom.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Liquidation of accounts today sent the stock market down to near the lowest level since 1929.

Trading increased. There was some year-end evening in bond selling but most orders came from long who dumped their holdings and planned to remain on the sidelines pending more definite measurement of business conditions. Short selling was dormant.

Wall Street ascribed the decline to the following reasons:

1. A "trust busting" attitude at Washington.
2. Indications of more stringent tax laws, especially against companies with large surpluses.
3. A report of the department of agriculture urging legislation for nationalization of timberlands and increase of federal regulation of the lumber industry.
4. Adverse business news, including a statement by William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, that his company was curtailing operations and laying off men.

Unloading in stocks was so heavy that tickers fell behind at intervals. Bonds were active and lower. Commodities declined.

LEGAL HAIR-SPLITTING

An odd legal tangle in Chicago makes one wonder whether our courts are not sometimes the instruments of a complicated legal game rather than instruments for attaining exact justice.

A Chicago woman whose husband had vanished in 1926 went to court the other day to have him declared legally dead, so that she could collect his insurance. The jury heard the evidence and retired to deliberate. While it was deliberating, word came that the man was not dead at all, but alive in a town out here in California. The word came too late, and the jury brought in a verdict that the man was legally dead.

And the judge, with this news at hand, held that he could not reverse the jury's verdict, and ordered the insurance company to pay up.

Higher courts probably will overturn the case, but doesn't this unbending adherence to legalistic formula seem rather odd?

PUZZLE FOR CHIANG

Within a comparatively short time, probably, the Japanese army will have captured Nanking, capital of China. And in that connection will come the greatest test which Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's military genius has yet faced.

For capture of the Chinese capital would not necessarily mean the end of the war. China is large, it lacks the complex organization of most countries, and if Chiang refuses to sacrifice his army in a futile defense of his capital he can still give the Japanese plenty to worry about. Remember, as a parallel, that in 1865 it was the capture of Lee's army, not the capture of Richmond, which brought Grant's campaign to triumph.

What will Chiang do? An heroic "last stand" before the capital would be the obvious thing. But unless he has the wisdom to shun the obvious, Japan's victory in the current war is as good as certain.

SOVIET POLE PIONEERS

Those four Russian scientists who were plunked down on an ice floe at the North Pole last May and told to stay there until they were called for have done a good deal of traveling just by sitting still. The latest messages from their floating base show that they have drifted 745 miles, and now are off the northeast coast of Greenland, nearly eight degrees of latitude from the pole.

If they have done nothing else, they at least have reversed one of the traditions of polar exploration. The old timers went to the pole, or as close to it as they could get, by slow and painful stages. The Russians went there in a hurry, but have taken longer getting back than any other group on record.

And while they undoubtedly will bring back much scientific data on ocean currents, water temperatures, and so on, it is probably that one thing by which the public will remember them—that they flew to the pole and then drifted away on a cake of ice.

NEW LICENSE PLATES

In the interests of safer motoring 1938 California automobile license plates will be different from those of 1937. The colors of the plates the last few years have been orange and black, the colors of numerals and background being reversed each year.

The plates next year, however, will have a yellow background with black numerals and letters. The letters which heretofore have been placed in front of the numerals will appear in the middle of the numeral series, thus the combinations will be shorter and easier to identify.

Those new plates will be available shortly after the first of the year to all owners who have paid their tax and license fees.

Highway authorities agree that yellow is the color which looms best through fog and nocturnal disturbances.

Thus another step is taken by state highway and patrol officials to make motoring safer in California. It's another step forward.

A HERO DIES

It can't be said too often, especially right now. There are heroes of peace, as well as war. In Chicago, Dr. Richard H. Jaffe is dead. In China, a Japanese flyer is dead. Back in his homeland, the Japanese flyer is honored as a hero. To the ancestral gods is told the story of how he died flying against Japan's enemies. Those gods also will know the rest of the story, whether there were Chinese babies lying mangled in some gutter, or wandering helpless and homeless. Those gods probably will not blame the flyer himself, knowing that he was only the agent of others.

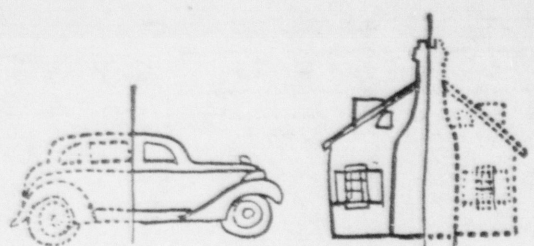

But Dr. Jaffe is dead, too. He was 48 years old, an outstanding pathologist. When a mysterious disease struck down 13 newborn babies in a Chicago hospital, Dr. Jaffe took up the fight. He worked night and day to save baby lives. Overstrained by the tension of the search, the urgency of the fight, Dr. Jaffe's heart gave way. He died.

Who shall say his death in the effort to save babies was not more glorious than the death of those whose work results in killing babies?

Sharing the Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

The Masses and Comforts

We aren't satisfied with the number of comforts and luxuries we have distributed among the masses of our people. According to the standards we set for ourselves, there is an actual shortage of milk and butter in America today—less per person than we had in 1929. And we have a shortage of many other things.

Economists have carefully estimated that we need, for example, 900,000 new homes per year for the next five years; 4,000,000 new cars per year . . . just to catch up.

How can we have these 41-2 million new homes in five years? By less work? By higher prices? By more relief spending?

How can we produce all these new homes and new cars and distribute them to the people who need them, if these people are not themselves producing food and clothing and shelter for the busy home-builders and car-makers?

IT TAKES MANY HANDS, MANY HOURS, MUCH CAPITAL TO PRODUCE AND DISTRIBUTE ALL THE THINGS WE ALL WANT. THEY DON'T GROW OUT OF HOPES OR PROMISES. (Through the courtesy of J. Walter Thompson Co.)

"OUR SACRED COW"

The new findings of the National Labor Relations board against the Ford Motor Car company brings out the fact that we have a "sacred cow" in America. The National Labor Relations board ruled that the Ford company desist from distributing "propaganda disparaging or criticizing labor organizations."

This means, if it means anything, that employers who ship largely across state lines dare not frankly discuss with their employees the eventual effects of labor organizations that attempt to establish wages by force rather than on a method of establishing what the individual produces by a free and open market.

It would seem to us that this is absolutely a violation of freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

To have a "sacred cow" that cannot be openly and frankly discussed is a long way towards establishing a condition in America similar to what exists in Russia, Italy and Germany.

It is amazing how we can deceive ourselves into believing that we can benefit workers as a whole by such artificial methods.

This is exactly what we have been teaching in our schools for years and we are reaping the inevitable results of our atrocious educational institutions.

COST OF FARM BILL

No one knows, of course, how much the farm bill would cost the nation; or how many people it would cause to be idle and be supported by the government.

Dorothy Thompson says that a single bale of cotton takes 200 to 250 man hours of human labor to produce and that we contemplate reducing the crop by eight million bales, which means doing away with 1,600,000,000 hours of labor. At present WPA costs, work relief for this displaced labor will cost 700 million dollars.

We do not know whether or not, in her estimate, she included the transportation and mercantile business that usually goes with the production of any basic commodity.

She says no human being can set the cost of the bill. The cost of the subsidies and the administration will be a mere bagatelle in the total cost.

DIFFERENT NOW

Jean Marat, together with Robespierre, was responsible largely for the excesses in the French Revolution. It was Marat, in the French Assembly, who, just as our demagogic educators do now, assured the people when they were alarmed about the economic conditions, that France now had a democracy and things were different; that the people did not need to be perturbed about inflation.

So when anyone tells you that things are different now, have them re-read Jean Marat's speech before the French Revolution.

Economic laws do not change even if the educators do say things are different now.

The Nation's Press

FARMER WASHINGTON

President Roosevelt in a recent speech raised an interesting historical question. He said that if George Washington were alive today he would favor "Government action to aid farmers as a group to bring their farming operations into balance."

In arriving at this conclusion, the President stressed the fact that Washington was a successful farmer. He diversified his crops, protected his land against soil erosion and did a lot of things that Secretary Wallace is preaching. Washington kept a detailed diary and recorded day by day what was done on his farm. He never mentioned asking the Government to pay him for not raising crops.

On the other hand, it is but fair to say that Washington's farm was not the "family-size" homestead that Mr. Wallace talks about. This own farming activity consisted in riding around over his 8000-acre estate telling his overseers what to have the slaves do. His diary account of soil erosion work reads like this: "The women spent the forenoon filling up gullies."

In one diary entry Washington did mention the relation of Government to the farmers. He had taken a trip out through a farming district, and he noted that the people "appear to have abundant means to live well. . . . They appeared to be happy, contented and satisfied with the general government."—Detroit News.

Old Mac-Congress Had a Farm Program

General Hugh S. JOHNSON Says

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The coming of Christmas into the world nineteen hundred and thirty-seven years ago did untold good for the relations between individuals. But it did even more, I think, for the relations between groups — among people in communities and above all, for relations between nations. The road to that improvement was long and hard and bloody, but the effect at last was plain.

Mothers loved their children before Christ came, friends were faithful and not all men were selfish and cruel. The new note of His teaching was, "For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? Do not even the publicans so? And if ye salute your brethren only, what do you more than others? Do not even the publicans so?"

That was a New Deal and the essence of it was to have regard also for those whose only tie to you is that you and they are human beings.

The effect of even half-way acceptance of that in the long run was bound to be some change in the idea that the word "stranger," as among nations, was an equivalent of the word "enemy" and that a neighbor nation was only a field for conquest, if it had anything worth while taking and you were strong enough to take it.

It required a long time for that to work. There were too many disruptive forces stirring. Christianity took the Roman Empire but too late for it thus to take the world. The Barbarians smashed Rome and before Christianity could take them completely, two other great waves of conquest engulfed large parts of the world. Mahomet's came, followed by the erupted out of Arabia with a fierce and Christless code of slaughter and coercion. Genghis Khan engulfed Asia from the China Sea to the Danube and his only regard for a neighbor nation was as a subject victim—just as the creed of Rome had been for a millennium.

It is no good. The world must be sicken in this slaughter, see that it is no good and go back to Christmas—peace on earth—good will toward men—all three synonymous.

Register Clearing House

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor, Register: My attention has been called to a letter which appeared recently in your paper signed by Paul C. Phillips, in which he attacks the American Civil Liberties Union as an organization unworthy of the support of loyal citizens. Mr. Phillips is moved to write his letter because of the warm commendation which Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes gave to our organization in a national broadcast recently.

As to whether or not "there has been a widespread disregard of our constitutional rights," I would like first of all to refer Mr. Phillips to a book by Professor Leon Whipple entitled, "The Story of Civil Liberties in the United States." I would also ask him to read the reports issued by the La Follette Committee on Civil Liberties appointed by the United States Senate to probe into violations of civil liberties in labor disputes. This committee has shown that the most atrocious practices exist on the part of organizations like the Republic Steel Company and other employer groups in suppressing the rights of their workers. The committee has issued a pamphlet on the shooting down of pickets in front of the Republic Steel plant in Chicago last Memorial Day which should certainly be read by Mr. Phillips and anyone else who is in doubt about this matter.

As to the utterances of the Better America Federation, no particular attention should be paid to anything coming from this source. It is well known that the B.A.F. was organized and financed heavily by big business interests who were viciously antagonistic to labor. The organization has now ceased to exist, practically.

Don't take the New York State Lusk committee report too seriously, either. The legislature to whom this report was made practically regarded it as a joke and never acted favorably on a single one of its recommendations. Mrs. Dilling's book, "The Red Network" calls such people as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, Professor John Dewey of Columbia University and Miss Jane Addams of sacred memory dangerous Reds. Little else need be said about such a book to those who are discerning.

The A. C. L. U. is backed by some of the foremost citizens of this country and has carried on a work all over America for twenty years that has commended itself to those who really believe in our fundamental rights as set forth in the Bill of Rights. We have defended both radicals and conservatives on the theory of Abraham Lincoln that:

"A government had better go to the very extreme of tolerance than to do ought that could be construed into an interference with or to jeopardize to any degree the common rights of the citizen."

Chicken thieves and rubber check artists usually get a pretty square deal without a special organization to defend them. With violators of the criminal syndicalism and other anti-labor measures it is entirely different because of the economic elements that enter into the case.

Sincerely,
CLINTON J. TAFT,
Director, Sou. Cal Branch A.C.L.U.

We, The People

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The fearful and wonderful spectacle of congress trying to draft its own legislation, instead of deciding the questions of policy involved in bills submitted to it, so impressed me that recently I considered writing a series of columns describing "The New Deal on the defensive."

This proved to be impossible since Mr. Roosevelt's present Hindenburg line of defense is to pass the buck completely to a legislative body which has not written its own measures since before the World War. Under the G. O. P. groups of interested bankers and business men framed the laws under the New Deal, the executive departments have tried to frame the laws.

I had not realized how baffling this buck-passing had proved to the Tories until I heard a reactionary columnist who has been bitter in his attacks on "rubber-stamp legislation" complain that the administration had insufficiently "prepared the program" for the wotzit special session of the national legislature.

The result is such moral chaos as has not been seen at Washington since the days of Warren Gamaliel Harding. Even Dante could not describe it for Dante believed that there was order even in Hell, while here we have a mixture of cowardice, indecision and frustration which would defy the comprehension of an Einstein. It is a cross between a rush for the nearest exit and a sit-down strike, with overtones of a snake-dance and a bull-fight.

There is little doubt in my mind that when congress crawled back to the scene of their do-nothing session of last summer, a majority was all hopped up for immediate repeal of the taxes on capital gains and undivided corporate surplus. They were loaded to the eye-balls with a "pro-business" program calculated to complete the ruin of little business by a deflation of the 1929 Hoover-Morgan variety. They might have succeeded if business leaders had kept their mouths shut,

PHYSICAL AND MENTAL RELAXATION ADVISED IN CASE OF OVERSTRAIN

This is the fifth and concluding article of a series in which Dr. Fishbein discusses cause, effect and treatment of nervous breakdown.

Complete relaxation answers the problem of overstrain. Coupled with the "riva" of modern industry and living are the financial worries of economic imbalance. There are all sorts of panaceas for overstrain. Usually the man who worries is told to forget it. The advice does not help because worry creates a vicious circle. You worry first about what is going to happen and then you worry about how to stop worrying.

The problem of worry does not always affect the aged or the middle-aged. In one college for girls, 135 consulted the psychologist in a single year. Forty-four girls were found to be suffering with severe nervous disturbances; 13 were quite ill with real depressions; four had definite suicidal tendencies. Some had exceedingly minor difficulties that might have led to serious troubles if they had not been taken in time.

The first step for those who have nervous disturbance, worries or misapprehensions, is to consult a medical adviser to make certain that there is no physical basis for disorder. A physician who has specialized in problems of the mind may be needed to work out the mental background of a situation when no physical cause can be found. In either event it is highly desirable to work out a good mental hygiene program.

Make the body as healthy as possible by proper diet, sleep, exercise, sunshine and outdoor air, and enough relaxation and rest during the day.

Few people really know how to relax both physically and mentally. There is one system in which the patient relaxes each muscle of the body systematically, one at a time, until he is actually completely relaxed physically.

There are also systems for mental relaxation—from counting sheep to counting knots on a string while repeating a formula. Some people practice rhythmic breathing. Most people incline to develop patterns for falling asleep.

The doctor aids in such cases by the power of suggestion and by imparting confidence. There is no use to saying "Don't" to anyone about his worries. Physicians trained in the study of the mind will determine the mental problem that concerns the patient and by aiding the patient to understand his problem, frequently will dispel the mind of its worry.

Everyone should be cautioned, however, about overwork and speed. Some people have a far greater capacity for effort and much more drive than do others, but the speed of modern life under many conditions is too much for even the strongest.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. — A crafty new corporation tax formula has been finished by those house tax drafters who have been tinkering in secret for weeks. It has been passed around only among the loyal Democrats on the drafting sub-committee. They have been guarding it with their lives even from their Republican colleagues on the drafting committee. It came from the treasury and is due for a semi-official trial balloon ascension after the holidays.

All of it may never get off the ground, because there is a false bottom in the basket now attached to it which may prove to be too heavy even for the treasury to sponsor officially. In fact, official denials may soon be in order. The suggestion that such a plan in order that you may have a complete pre-view of the new rubber tax bag as it now lies flat on the ground, before official inflation by the administration, here is the scheme: (You will note it is far too ingenious to be anything but authentic.)

Plan is to advertise the corporate tax revision as a face-saving device. That is, the administration will not itself deny that the arrangement is purely a measure to save its face on the old earnings distribution tax which proved so unpopular, (the revision of which business has eagerly been awaiting.)

Nub of the face-saving scheme will be a series of exemptions. First there would be a flat exemption of $50,000 or 30 per cent of the net income of corporations, whichever is the greater. This would abandon the tax upon all corporations earning less than $50,000 net income a year, and would permit those with larger incomes to deduct 30 per cent of their large incomes before computing the tax. It would appear to be virtually a repeal of the tax.

A second exemption would further limit application of the tax to corporations which do not distribute 60 per cent of their net income in dividends. This, of course would be a sop to the oilphant theorists who inaugurated the tax for the announced purpose of forcing corporations to pay out their earnings to the public.

So far, so good. Then comes the joker. A final exemption says the tax will still further not apply to all corporations, whose stock is 51 per cent or more in public hands.

This might be advertised officially as an effort to catch only one-family holding corporations formed for the purpose of evading taxes. That is, those strictly personal corporations which do not distribute dividends and thus the owners avoid payment of income surtaxes. "All other corporations except these are to be relieved." "The administration is merely trying to save its face."

But the wording of this exemption, unless it has been changed within the last 48 hours, would not only save the cherub countenance of Messrs. Morgenthau, Olin, et al. but would obliterate from the business map a few non-cherubs under this administration—certainly Mr. Henry Ford, probably the Duponts and the Mellons, certainly one large grocery chain, and dozens of other one-man or one-family businesses.

Best tax guessers here think the provision is aimed particularly at Ford and may be the government's contribution to the C.I.O. drive against him.

Of course, it would not immediately and directly put Ford out of business. The tax framers are apparently going to pat him on the back, while taking out his heart. The plan calls for a "slight reduction" in the old undistributed earnings rates, which formerly were at a peak of 34.2 per cent. The new rate schedule has not been worked out yet.

However, all of Mr. Ford's competitors whose stocks are 51 per cent or more in public hands, will enjoy much lower rates. They will pay, under the new schedule worked out by the tax drafters, and already made public, upon the following basis: 21 per cent on incomes up to $5,000, and 14 per cent up to $25,000; approximately 20 per cent above $25,000, under certain earnings distribution allowances which will make the average rate 16 per cent above $25,000.

Such discrimination is probably unconstitutional, and would not be sanctioned by congress even under official pressure. It is doubtful whether it will survive the vote of the full house ways and means committee. So far it has been accepted only by the Democratic majority in the sub-committee, and their decision is tentative.

What puts most alarmed Democratic members of congress against the idea is not love of Ford, but of fair-play and the impatience of certain New Dealers who seem to be unwilling to wait a few years until they can seize Ford's property under the confiscatory estates tax. The idea of picking out a few corporations in certain industries to put them at the mercy of their competitors by discriminatory taxes is likewise not generally relished. If the government is able to destroy one class of taxpayers by such means it can use the same means to destroy others later, until no corporations survive except those with federal sanction.

Thus, all it may amount to in the end is the branding of a new political threat, not against business bigness, but against one-family bigness.

And even if it never sees the official light of official sanction, it will be a historic tribute to the ingeniousness of treasury tax-makers. They may have been silent lately, but they certainly have not stopped thinking—or hating.

But of the wording of this exemption, unless it has been changed but as Win Aldrich of the Chase National, Lamont DuPont and other tycoons of the Manufacturers Association expounded their strange doctrine, even the best friends of Big Business were discouraged to discover that the "best minds" had learned nothing and forgotten nothing since 1929. So, as revision, as understood in Wall Street, has languished exceedingly.

The farm bill was so mauled and mangled in the senate that Henry Wallace called it the one unforgivable word in American politics. He branded it as "Fascism!" agreeing for once with Mark Sullivan. The farm bill got attention in the house only as a result of the threat
